

Wolf City Military

The key to the city's defence is its superior radar and satellite systems that allow early detection of any incoming invasion or other dangers. The Wolf Lego City even has a space centre and launching pad to carry satellites on rockets into space.

The main base on the most Western point of the city. This tall tower base contains a super zoom surveillance system that allows for golf ball on other end of the island to be seen

The main Navy Port and docking space for the Wolf Aircraft carrier. Surrounding the base there are forest reserves, these are restricted to military use only. These areas help to keep important green space and lungs for the city, while allowing for secret and special military training to be undertaken.

The Wolf Lego City is protected by a small but powerful military force. The island nation has several military bases which are positioned in key locations around the island. This positioning ensures that within minutes troops can be made ready for action and deployed to any part of the nation that may need protecting. The military bases house a modern air force and fleet of battleships, which places the Wolf Navy among the most powerful Military in the region. These ships can regularly be spotted as they routinely sail around the island on alert, and as they perform regular training drills.

The Fleet with the most advanced technology and weapons of mass destruction

There are many top secret locations on the island, these are mostly occupied and used by the military. Military specific bridges and roadways allow for rapid response in times of emergency.
